Bowlo supports locals with cash

The Guyra Bowling & Recreation Club last week handed over donations to three very worthy organisations in Guyra.

Secretary Manager Ken Law said the club was aware that over the past two years many volunteer organisations have been struggling because of lockdowns and COVID-19 restrictions.

The Directors have decided to provide some much needed support for the following organisations:-

Guyra Hospital Auxiliary – every dollar raised is spent on much needed equipment and/or support for the Guyra Hospital. These volunteers have not been able to have their streets stalls, or have any avenues to raise funds. Patricia Fields wrote to the Club asking for assistance and the Board agreed to help to the tune of $1,000.00

Guyra Troutfest – have their annual festival in October. The last two years have been very restricted, they are very much hoping that 2022's festival will be much busier. The Troutfest Committee are having their Grand Finale at the Club and have booked Charlie Fittler to perform on the Sunday evening. The committee asked the Club to help defray the cost, the Board has decided to provide $1,000 for this.

Westpac Rescue Helicopter – Tony Looker has been doing his Drivers Run for about 4 years, raising funds for the Rescue Helicopter. The Board agreed to donate $500.

Signs renewed

The two Guyra town entry signs located on the New England Highway have been reinstalled following a makeover.

The signs have been in place for over 10 years and were looking a little the worse for wear.

They were removed in June to allow specialists to refresh the artwork, which has now been completed.

The signs are now back in place welcoming people into the town again.

Outgoing farm leader sees hope on horizon

Outgoing NSW Farmers President James Jackson says there is a great future ahead for Australian agriculture if governments and the public support the vital sector.

With his term as leader of the country's largest state farming organisation ending this week, Mr Jackson reflected on his time in the role and identified a key challenge for the sector.

"Australia as a nation lags behind on backing farmers, with a government paper on food security this week revealing we have one of the lowest levels of agricultural support across the 37 Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) member countries – and when compared to major emerging economies," Mr Jackson said.

"Australians have seen firsthand the impact of natural disasters and supply chain failures on food security this year, and we need a fresh focus on farming.

Guyra farmer James Jackson will step down as President of the NSW Farmers Association this week after four years

"Our farmers grow the food we eat every day and produce cotton and wool to clothe us, yet we as a nation are still undervaluing the important role of agriculture."

Mr Jackson said the impact of this historic governmental disinterest in agriculture was being played out in the current biosecurity debate, with Varroa mite affecting our bees and foot and mouth disease on our doorstep.

"Being able to feed and clothe yourself is a basic human need, but our farmers are up against it with government policies that act as a handbrake on the sector.

"The fact that we are so productive despite our challenging climate and all the red tape we face is proof that Aussie farmers could make an even bigger contribution if they were allowed to.

"I have been saying for years that governments need to get out of the way and unleash the beast, and let us do what we do best – grow world-class food and fibre."

Despite the challenges facing the farming sector, Mr Jackson said he was heartened by positive policy developments over the past few years.

"We've worked hard to get some key wins in securing farmers against trespassing activists, natural disaster support, coastal harvestable rights, and recently with the state's boost to biosecurity funding," Mr Jackson said.

"Quite often the wins are small and incremental, but we're moving the needle on important policies and making things better for farmers bit by bit.

"People are starting to take notice, too, with our full primary producer membership increasing over recent years despite consolidation reducing the number of farms out there."

Join a free tour of Council facilities and learn about Local Government services

Have you ever wondered what happens after you flush the toilet or when you put your recycling out on the kerbside? Or do you just want to know about the various services your Council delivers in the community?

Local Government Week is designed to showcase the work councils do in their local communities and the various services they provide, and now is your opportunity to learn about the essential services Armidale Regional Council provides by booking a free tour of its facilities.

From Monday 1 August to Saturday 6 August free tours will be conducted across waste, water and waste-water facilities in Armidale and Guyra. An open day at the Animal Companion Shelter and a morning tea at the Armidale Civic Administration Building have also been included in this year's Local Government Week schedule.

Behind the scenes at the Guyra water treatment plant

Armidale Regional Council Deputy Mayor Todd Redwood said the tours offer an informative snapshot of the day-to-day operations and the important work that goes on behind the scenes.

"Council has a wide portfolio of services it delivers to our community and these tours provide community members greater understanding of these services, beyond what meets the eye. I encourage everyone to join a tour and see some of our award winning facilities and the first-class services Council provides including the Reuse Farm and City to Soil initiatives."

Council is hosting an open day at the Animal Companion Shelter where community members can gain insight into the level of care required for animals in need of a safe and loving home. A barbeque will be provided on the day and attendees can play with animals, learn how to become a volunteer or adopt a pet.

A morning tea at the Armidale Civic Administration Building will be a highlight to this year's schedule with community members able to meet and chat to councillors, the general manager and staff members. An optional guided tour of the building will follow the morning tea to showcase the various departments operating at Council.

Bookings are essential and bus pick-ups for these tours will be available from Council's Armidale or Guyra offices, except for the morning tea and open day. Masks are a requirement on the bus and inside Council facilities.

A full tour schedule is available to view on the Council events section of the website.

To make a booking go to www.evenbrite.com.au and search Local Government tours or contact Customer Service on 1300 136 833.

Weekly Wool Market

July 15th - This week was the last sale before the mid-year three week recess. The 61,000 bales that were originally rostered failed to all turn up with 6% withdrawn prior to sale.

The 55,000 bale offering was the largest weekly offering in almost two and a half years. Not surprisingly the large offering was placed under downward pressure from the opening of sales. Most of the falls occurred on the first day of sales with a 15 cent drop in the Northern region indicator followed up by a further 4 cent decline on the final day.

46,689 bales were sold nationally for the week with the passed in rate climbing to 13.6% (heavily dominated by the Crossbred and Oddments sectors). Major buyers included Techwool, Tianyu and Meliwa. The Southern region was the only region selling on Thursday and in a positive it managed some gains especially for the Superfine types.

In US dollars this week's closing EMI level of 938 cents is 19% and 12% below its 5 and 10yr averages. Hopefully this may assist in generating fresh orders during the recess period. Sales recommence the week of the 8th of August. This report will recommence on the 12th of August.

Guyra Evening CWA Celebrates Women – Wisely and Healthily !

Ellie Mitchell, Heide Gray , Chloe and Letitia Kearney

The Guyra Evening CWA hosted a wonderful morning out in Guyra recently with the theme of 'Women wellbeing and the next generation'. Despite the arctic outside temperature there was warm happy conversations including a decadent morning tea .

Rural Aid and Resilience NSW providing information around recovery and health services along with an opportunity for important health checks i.e. blood pressure .

The morning's highlight however was an inspirational address by Ellie Mitchell on opportunities for women especially the next generation Ellie is the winner of the Guyra CWA Evening Guyra Central School Scholarship for 2022 and year 11 student at Guyra Central School . Ellie also spoke on gender equality, the importance of mentors in the community especially being part of voluntary organizations like the CWA.

Gazette's Celebrity Footy Tipping

Round 18 of NRL produced some high scoring games and a brutal State of Origin clash, which will go down in history as one of Queensland's best series wins!

The Panthers somehow found a way to win against the luckless Tigers, whilst the Sharks handed the Cowboys a serious reality check!

The Green Machine dealt the Storm their third loss in a row.

The Eels, Roosters and Manly all won with a leg in the air, whilst the Rabbits and Broncos scraped across the line in tightly contested matches.

In the Locals tipping, Sharky skips clear by 6 points, slowly but surely extending his lead, whilst Smooch, Iggman, Old Timer and Up the Knights all top scored with 16 points.

In the Celebrities tipping, Soley is killing it, top scoring this week with a perfect round, even backing Queensland to scoop the big 18 points! Well done Soley, hats off!
